DEMARCATED PROTECTED FORESTS HAMIRPUR TAHSIL, EXCLUSIVE OF TALUKA KOTLEHR.

Record of Right-holders.

Demarcated Protected Forests in Hamírpur Tahsíl, exclusive of Talúka Kutlehr.

RECORD OF RIGHT-HOLDERS.

No.	Forest.	Mauza or tappa.	Tika.	By whom rights are exercised.	Parts of forest in which rights are exercised, named by the tikás in which they are situated.	Detail of rights that are exercised.	Special rights of property, &c.	Sheep-grazing runs.	REMARKS.
1	Telokpur ...	Mewa ...	Chak ban ...	Tika Tamrol ... „ Badher ... „ Kakrol ... „ Garsár ... „ Gujrera ... „ Phaglot ... „ Mano ... „ Kakrot ... „ Bhaur ... Kakar basti of Pipla ... Tika Yanui ... „ Naltu ...	Chakban ...	Full rights ... „ „ „ Grazing only. „ Grazing and dry wood. „ „ „ „ „ „ But all the above rights may be exercised only when the forest is open.	No cultivation is included in this forest; but Thakur Dial and Kishen Dial, sons of Sidu, Brahmins, of Tamrol, have a hut in the forest.	The runs in tappas Mewa, Bamsan and Mahlta are held by the Gráthí Gaddís of Karnathu in Dewal. There are two doras, that is, flocks belonging to different branches of the family. In the one flock are the sheep belonging to the descendants of Hadu, and in the other the sheep of the descendants of Achru, Mansa and Jakru. They divide the runs as far as possible into equal parts. There is no permanent division. The grazing is very poor, and only part of the flocks (generally the sheep) is kept here, the rest being sent to Kahlur, where there is grazing for goats.	The soil of the forests Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, all lying in the eastern part of the tahsil, belongs to Government, as well as the trees, but the forests are subject to the ordinary rights of user exercised by the neighbouring villages. They are all hard-wood forests. The two in Badiana tika contain only garna. There are bamboos in Telokpur. There are no chil in any of them. See paragraph 61 of Mr. Lyall's Settlement Report. In Telokpur the forest is closed against all grazing for the three rainy months, Sáwan, Bhadon, Asauj. The grass is then cut by Garsár, Kakrol, Gujrera, Tamrol, Badher tikas which adjoin the forest. There was a dispute between Shib Dial of Badher and the people of that village. A piece was set aside (one-sixteenth) from which they might cut grass; and it was also arranged that fodder grass should be cut in Kartik, and thatching grass in the first week of Mangsir, and not later. The trihai is closed all the year. It is well stocked. The bamboos might be sold; they are never cut without permission.

(4) The Rája is entitled to take whatever wood he requires for the use of his household free of payment. He shall also grant to all right-holders the timber they require in accordance with the rules prevailing in the tahsíl generally. In cases where in mauza Badwár a price (zamíndári rate) may be charged for trees, the Rája is at liberty to realize such rates and to retain the whole of them, or he may remit such payments; but in no case may he charge more for trees than is paid by right-holders in Badwár.

(5) As in Chatroli.

(6) Tikas Nagrota, Phulel, Silko, Garniáru, Bharnoli, Uperli Barndli have full rights in the waste of tika Phulel, as defined in Part II., for Badwár village, and may be exercised subject to the conditions therein recorded, except as provided in (5).

(7) The rakha will as heretofore be appointed by the Forest Department, but any representation made by the Rája will receive due consideration.

(8) As (9) for Chatroli.

IV.—Special case of the Jagirdar of Reh.

The case of the Jágírdár of Reh rests on the record made by Mr. Lyall at the revision of settlement. This was in reality the first settlement of this village, as it had not been settled by Mr. Barnes. He held that the proprietors of the cultivation were not the owners of the waste, but that they were entitled to bartan, and to a preferential right to break up land to the exclusion of outsiders. He did not allow that the Jágírdár was proprietor of the waste, but according to custom he had certain rights in the waste; e.g., no land could be broken up except with his permission, and Jágírdárs generally had possession of the trees, though the suzerain always kept the ban-waziri in his own hand.

The meaning of this record is—

1*st.*—That Government is owner of the waste, and

2*nd.*—That Government is owner of the trees; subject in both cases to the rights of the Jágírdár and of the people. In this case the rights of the people are the same as in other villages, with one exception, that land may not be broken up without the permission both of Government and of the Jágírdár.

The rights of the Jágírdár are not very clear, but he should be allowed—

1*st.*—All the rights admitted to ordinary zamíndárs.

2*nd.*—The right to receive free all trees bonâ fide required for his own use.

3*rd.*—No land should be broken up without his permission, and subject to the payment of rent.

4*th.*—As an act of grace, Government should grant to him the share of the income from sale of trees which in other places will be given to the village proprietors. He must apply for trees, but in granting them consideration should be shown.

V.—Special case of the Mahant of Damtal.

At the time when Mr. Duff demarcated reserves in this tahsíl he took up an area of 321 acres 3 roods 26 poles in Damtál, and 74 acres 3 roods 2 poles in Sirt. He conferred on the Mahant of Damtál full rights in the area demarcated in Sirt, and also in 4 acres 3 roods in Damtál; that is, the trees, bamboos, &c., in that area are the absolute property of the Mahant, and may be used by him in any way he wishes for the use of the temple, and he may even sell them and apply the income to the maintenance of the temple. In the open area of Damtál village he has a right to supply himself free of charge with timber and bamboos, as well as to give his chelas and cultivators permission to do the same; but the Mahant must apply to the Forest Officer in charge, who will indicate the timber and bamboos to be cut. Only sufficient material for the bonâ fide requirements of the temple and of the chelas and cultivators should be given, and no part of it should be sold or bartered. The orders on this subject are to be found in the correspondence ending with Government of India No. 782, dated 22nd October 1884, and Commissioner's No. 544, dated 27th December 1884, to Deputy Commissioner, Kángra.

VI.—Special case of the Chaudhri of Indaura.

A piece of forest area about 160 acres has been for many years under the direct management of the Chaudhri of Indaura. He is not owner of the trees, but the forest was handed over to his management for the supply of the wants of the zamíndárs. The rights of the parties are recorded in a decision passed by Munshi Amín Chand on 10th March 1869, and confirmed by the Settlement Officer on 13th March 1869. The arrangement therein recorded will continue. The only point that requires to be specially noted is that the Chaudhri, at present Mála Singh, has no authority to sell timber, and that if the trees are wantonly cut, or the forest destroyed, the management may be taken out of his hands.

An area of ghs. 5-5-14 of cultivation has been included in this forest, and may be cultivated as heretofore.	The second run, which includes Fatehpur, Hatli, Maholi and Samlet, in which there are demarcated forests, is of great extent. The Wárisi in this run belongs to Bana and Nabu of Núrpur, but they do not themselves come to the run. Their sheep and goats are grazed by Gokul, son of Manga, and by Dil, who are old assámís, and have some sheep of their own. The descendants of Manga, Mahájan, Chanalu, Thora, and Dil have been accustomed to come to this run: they do not pay anything to Bana and Nabu, who have a right only to graze their own flocks. The Chamba contractor takes Rs. 2 per hundred, Re. 1 on account of grazing, and Re. 1 milána. The flocks do not remain united under the contractor for the first two months, and the milána is realized by the shepherds themselves, and in consideration of this they pay in cash Re. 1 per hundred sheep and goats. They divide the grazing among themselves by mutual arrangement: there is no mukadam.	This forest is similar in all respects to Ban Sánan. There are a few chíl in it.

In four villages there is little or no grazing for sheep, viz., Bungtiál Páli, Kher and Khóknár. The debateable ground between the two runs is in Chattar Khás and Sakri, and consists for the most part of the areas demarcated in forests Nos. 12 and 15. The dispute refers mostly to Kangri, and Be (No. 15), which is a miscellaneous forest, and more useful than a chil forest for sheep-grazing. Enquiry seemed to show that Chattar Khás and Sakri are in the southern run, but are also grazed by the Gaddís in the northern run, when those of the southern run have left. In the southern run Gungar, Farangi and Kalesar of the family of Jai Dev, got Chaledi; and also Gunja, Bhekhi, graze and have come to the run for years; Lanu, Garba, Vakíl, Kompa, Atra, Bar-ru also graze in this run, but they have come recently. This is a very poor miscellaneous forest, with a few clumps of bamboo. The area is considerable and compact, and it is near Pathánkot. The best bamboo forests are near cultivation and undemarcated. There are Gujars in Balír and Thabkaur who pay five annas per buffalo, and that even though they hold land.

The forest known as Agrada-ban is not demarcated.
						Tika Gandwál ...	Láran in Gandwál.	Ditto.
						Lakhanpur Khás, on right side of Chandráni Nal.	Ditto ...	Grazing, grass, patra, dry wood and brushwood.

Demarcated Protected Forests in Núrpur Tahsíl—(concluded).

No.	Forest.	Mauza.	Tika.	By whom rights are exercised.	Parts of forests in which rights are exercised named by the Tika in which they are situated.	Detail of rights that are exercised.	Special rights of property, &c.	Sheep-grazing runs recorded by talúkas.	Remarks.
28	Thora ...	Thora Balún ...	Chakban ...	Tika Thora ...	Chakban ...	Full rights ...	An area of ghs. 23-2-17 of cultivation has been included in the forest, which may be cultivated as heretofore.	In Talúka Núrpur or Thára there are three runs— 1st.—Villages Bása Hariálán, Rhugnára, Jach, Ghain-lagor, Kuláhn. 2nd.—Villages Haral, Khokera, Khani, Suliál. 3rd.—Villages Thora Balun, Kopra, Báral. The first run is grazed by Mutsaddi and others—see forest No. 17. The second run is grazed by Atra, son of Dilia, Urian and others; also by Panchi, son of Kunda, and others. The third run is grazed by Ginku, son of Sanja, and others. The second and third runs were probably once grazed jointly, but are now separate.	A hard-wood forest adjoining the Khani Reserve. Of value for its proximity to Núrpur. The boundary here is rather irregular.

				Tika Gilor Khás of Gilor ...	Ditto ...	Grazing, patra, grass, dry wood.
29	Ladori ...	Ladori ...	Ladori ...	Bati Bása (Parts of Ladori.)	Ladori ...	Full rights ...	No cultivation is included in this forest.	In the Jagatpur Talúká a claim was put in only for the grazing in Pundar village by Jawáhir, son of Udami, Jariál. There are many closed reserves in this taluka, and Gaddís have therefore left it. Moreover, the Gaddís from Chamba pass through it and destroy the grazing. In the Kotla Talúka there is only one run, which is grazed by Biaju, Mukadam, who has also the grazing in four villages of the Kángra Tahsíl, viz., Shahpur, Munjgraon, Seun and Banhar, which for the purposes of collection of grazing fees will be considered as part of Taluka Kotla, Tahsíl Núrpur.	This forest contains chíl for the most part, but there are bare patches in it. The line is somewhat irregular, as there is cultivation on the top of the ridge. A large area of waste has also been left outside, both on this ridge and also on the Hathidhar, which is almost sheer perpendicular. It supplies bagar, taur leaves and bark. Ban-Gujars come to this village, but remain low down towards the Hathidhar.

An area of ghs. 21-6-10 of cultivation is included in this forest, which may be cultivated as heretofore.	.....	Chil forest, fairly well stocked, but generally steep. The Hathidhár has not been included in the demarcation. It is here a mere precipice, but supplies grass (bagar, &c.), also taur leaves and bark. Ban-Gujars come into this village, and there are also resident Gujars. They pay four annas per buffalo. They come in Assauj and leave in Chaitr, and live for the most part in Gansári, Kathla, Rund and in Kanjargár, part of Manua.

RECORD OF RIGHT-HOLDERS.

Demarcated Protected Forests in the Kangra Tahsil.

Demarcated Protected Forests in the Kángra Tahsíl.

No.	Forest.	Mauza.	Tika.	By whom rights are exercised.	Parts of forest in which rights are exercised named by the tikás in which they are situated.	Detail of rights that are exercised.	Cultivation, grass land, or other rights of an exclusive nature.	Sheep-grazing runs.	REMARKS.
1	Báltúng ...	Harnera ...	Chakban and Chaláhn.	Tika Mahár, except Bhika, son of Kundu, and Garba, son of Manjáru ...	Chakban ...	Full rights ...	In this forest there are no kharetars, sawánas, nor fields.	The grazing in the following villages, viz., Harnera, Lepiána, Dhar Khurd, Dhár Kalán, in Taluka Ramgárh and in Sadún, (part of Nerti) of Taluka Rihlu, is held by the descendants of Sanju, who now live in Sadun in village Nerti, and are represented by Dainju, son of Kashaura.	This is almost a pure chil forest, with large well-grown trees, and it will be worked profitably when the value of timber rises. Traders buy chil trees on kharetars and carry the timber to the Gaj stream, which is not far away. In the Dachar Nál, as its name implies, is the burning place for the hamlets round about. They take dry chil, and branches of green chil for this purpose.

53 Jalaru ...	Gurkari ...	Chakban (Gurkari).	Mauza Gurkari ...	Chakban Gurkari ...	Full rights ...	In the part from Kuhála there is no sawána, but 5 pieces of bankharetar, area Ghs. 1-2, from which grass may be cut during 3 months, and also in the nalas an area of Ghs. 22-0-8, which may be cultivated as heretofore.	For Kuhála, Kachiár, Kohli, see Forest No. 52.	This is similar to the Naina Devi Forest.
	Kuhála ...	Chakban (Kuhála).	Tika Khás Kachiár of Mauza Kachiár.	Ditto ...	Grazing and place for watering cattle.		The grazing in Gurkari is held by Naurang, &c., descended from Medu, and Sadu, &c., descended from Uttam. This was once part of Chamaru's mukaddami. Sometimes the four families with rights in Kaled, &c., have also come to Gurkari.	There was a dispute between the villages of Gurkari and Kuhála. There is very little wood in Gurkari, and that village claimed wood in Kuhála, which the Kuhála people said they were not entitled to. The villages agreed to have no rights except in their own villages. The watering place for Kuhála (Tikas Kopa, Kubála Khás, also Kachiár Khás and of Bahadur) is in Gurkari. The Gurkari people have probably got wood from Kuhála and the Kuhála people have watered in Gurkari.

The thák extends only to 4 months from Hár, but the Gújárs cut grass in the sawána even in Kártik.	Kanganu, son of Thakaru, and Faringi, son of Badu, of Narwana, graze in Sukoht. They are Mukaddams and have no assámis. The Mukaddams of the grazing in Daulatpur are Gurditta, &c., of Narwana. They have two assámis—Bupa and Deptia of Narwana. The Mukaddams wish to turn them out, but as they have come for many years, the Mukaddams may not, according to general custom, eject them so long as they continue to give 4 annas per 100 sheep and goats. In Jalárí, where there is no demarcation, Nohal, Nek, Garhu, Got Batetu, of Narwana, graze their sheep.	A large forest near Kángra, containing mostly hard-wood trees. It is generally well stocked and of value from its proximity to the town and fort of Kángra.

In this forest there is no cultivation, nor kharetar, nor sawána.	There are four passes in Kareri :— (1). Balaini Sairot, Kangra-ka-pani. (2). Basandot Khari-Ghori. These may be in Drini; it is not quite certain, nor is it of any importance. (3). Jotinu, above Kareri Dal. (4). Bhim-Gasutli or Gaja-ka-Gahr. There is more snow on Balaini than on Khari-Ghori, but they are quite near and are practically only one pass. The Jotinu Pass is used by the joint flocks of Kutarna, Duli and Kakra. &c. Bhim-Gasutli is used by Chamba Gaddís, who also come and go by Balaini Pass. Some of the Kareri sheep also go by the Andrár Pass above Dharmsála. There are five main divisions of the grazing in Kareri :— (1). Buted Gahr, from the Buted to Gajen, grazed by Balre Tika, Nadi, McLeodganj and Batalla Tikas of Dharmsála. (2). Gajen Gahr, from the Gajen to the Gaj, grazed by Chamba Gaddís. (3). Gaj, from the Gaj to the Leund, grazed by Nora, Karibai, Rawa, Bithu, Lunga, Kotla Tikas, and Tapkalm Kareri. The sheep of Kajlot Tika of Dharmsála go to the Dal, but not separately, only with the Kareri flock. Though the Kajlot Tika has now almost ceased to exist and the people have been scattered, still they will continue to have a right to go to Kareri to graze. (4). Leund, from the Leund to Tatháradhar, grazed by Manaina, Kut, Chamiara, Sel, Ser, Khás Kareri, Palún, Palota, Jamli Tikas. (5). The people have divided the grazing in these places, but no one has any exclusive right; the division is a matter of convenience. Even where any place was recorded at settlement in 1868 in the name of an individual no right was allowed, and at settlement orders were passed that such entries should be expunged, vide paragraphs 39, 185, of Mr. Lyall's Settlement Report. In the whole of the main range it has been held in regard to buffalo-grazing that it is common to the whole village, except in those cases where sawánas were at the Revenue Settlement recorded in the names of Gújárs. No proprietor of a village has any exclusive right to graze his buffaloes in any particular place. It was admitted that Nadi people from Dharmsála go to Guna (viz., of Phandi) along with Tikas Balre and Rawa; but this is not a right of an exclusive nature.

There is no kharetar nor sawánn in this Chakban, but an area of Ghs. 16-2-17 which consists almost entirely of scattered patches called goths, used for penning sheep and also occasionally cultivated with potatoes, &c. The whole village may graze buffaloes on the dhars; no one has any exclusive right to a particular dhar, but it is not customary to go too near to an old hut.	There used to be six Kundlís in Dharmsála, paying Rs. 14, realized by the drirkar, viz., (1) Arletta, (2) Kalaban, (3) Nalru-grot, (4) Resári, Lusár-jan and Kuphrotu, (5) Paji-ka-bár, (6) Buted. Now all the dhars are grazed promiscuously for a month and a half in Baisákh, Jait, and a month and a half in Assauj, Kártik. No one has any exclusive right.	This forest contains oak and the trees usually found on the main range. It is the principal source of supply of wood and grass to the station, but jhampánís and others go to the Gajen on one side and almost to the Manji on the other (Daulre). There is a slate quarry in the Chakban, held on lease by Durga Kotwál for period of settlement. The whole subject of the rights of the revenue-payers in slate quarries has been considered and decided in a correspondence to be found in the office.

Ghs. 87-3-12, which belongs to Ruldu, &c., Gújárs. In Pat this Gújár also has a sawána Nos. 212, 215, area Ghs. 140-6-2. The Gújár pays 8 annas for each large buffalo. In Bahl Tika there is no cultivation, nor kharetar, but a sawána, Ghs. 28-1-12, belonging to Piru, &c., of Bahl. The Gújárs pay 10 annas per buffalo over 4 years of age. The thak is only for three months, Hár, Sáwana, Bhádron. In the Chakban there was a sawána at settlement, No. 63, area Ghs. 27-0-7, but it is not now in the possession of any Gújár. In the Chakban there is an area of Ghs. 16-4-7 of ban-kharetar, from which grass may be cut during three months. There is no cultivation, nor kharetar, nor sawána in Shuko.	For Dharmsála see No. 78 ... In Sara, Noiya and Damodhar Gaddís of Dharmsála graze in Sara, but this can scarcely be considered a hereditary right. They have not hitherto paid tirni for grazing here, but should be made to pay unless they merely pass through.	This forest is on a spur running south-west from the Dharmsála Tea Estate. It is poor scrub jungle on the south-west, but good chil on north-east in a basin. It is convenient for the Gurkha Cantonment and Lower Dharmsála. The only owner in Tika Pat is the Dharmsála Tea Estate. The area from Shuko is small and bare. The lambardár has not given permission to cut green wood at all, or if he has given permission it has only been for Kamth. It includes the Government plantation No. 486, area Ghs. 5-5-14. In Sara wood for burning the dead will be found by all tikas from outside the demarcation. The Chaudhri of Sara, Jaswant Singh, asked that the kharetars near his house should be recorded in his name. This is not possible, but they should not be denuded.

In Chakban Saded there is no kharetar nor sawána, but an area of Ghs 21-1-5 was given to some stone-cutters to cultivate. They have now left the place.	In this forest no Gaddi has a hereditary right, but Chinju, Singhu, Gokul, Si, Kantu, remain 20 days in this direction. In Saded the Ikasni Gaddís of Dharmsála graze. The time spent by the Gaddís in these villages depends on the zamíndárs, so long as they will pay for manure, generally about 20 days. The Gaddís do not now pay tirni, but should be made to pay, unless they merely pass through.	This forest is mostly chil, well stocked in the upper part, but somewhat bare towards Giroh. The part in Saded might be entirely closed without causing much inconvenience. The Dhar Tika is nearest the forest. The other tikas wished to lease their rights in Saded to Gújárs in Giroh. This was prevented. If the village would arrange to keep the whole forest closed during the rains and then to divide the grass, all the tikas would get some good of this common waste. At present they only quarrel and get no good from it.

Kaniyara ...	Kaniyara ...	Chakban ...	The part of Tika Kharota on left bank of Manoni.	Part of Chakban known as Lehra, being the part on left side of Manoni stream.	Full rights ...	In this Chakban there is an area of Ghs. 41-7-3 which may be cultivated as heretofore. There is an area of Ghs. 31-4-13 which belongs to individuals and is used for goths and huts. There is no kharetar. There are the following sawánas, viz.:— (1). Tath Sawána, area Ghs. 68-5-18, held by Budu, Gújár, and Shahzáda, &c., Brahmins. (2). Kembal Sawána, area Ghs. 43-6-10, held by Kandu, Delia, &c., Gújárs. (3). Tutarna, area Ghs. 46-2-13, held by Taju, Gújár—see Commissioner's order dated 5th November 1883. (4). Chaka, area Ghs. 10-0-4, held by Malkhu, Gújár. Malkhu, Gújár, pays a lump sum of Rs. 3. The others pay eight annas for every buffalo that has once given a calf. The whole village of Kaniyara, that is, all revenue payers, may graze their cattle and buffaloes in any part of the common waste. No proprietor has any exclusive right of grazing in any particular place.	In Kaniyara and Narwana a wariat title to sheep-grazing dhars was admitted in the Revenue Settlement Record—see paragraph 45 of Settlement Report. This right is in most cases only a right to manure from those who graze sheep in the dhars. The following dhars were claimed:— IN LEHRA. (1). Garl, recorded at Revenue Settlement in name of Panchi and Prithia, lambardárs. Now Nantu Rana takes the manure. (2). Gahr, not recorded at settlement; manure taken by Sartaj, Brahmin, of Tika Mauli, who grazes his own sheep in the dhar. (3). Gwali, Nos. 114 and 151, entered in name of Jawahir Singh, father of Bhem Sen, who takes the manure. No. 112, entered in name of Gagina, father of Panchi, and Prithia, father of Nantu. Manure now taken by Bhem Sen. (4). Ghola. No record at settlement of right-holder. Manure now taken by Nantu Rana. IN TUTARNA. (1). Sind. No record at settlement. Manure now taken by Faringhi, Kundu, Bhekhu, of Kharota. (2). Chatra, recorded in name of Atra, who himself takes the manure now. (3). Garetar, recorded in name of Atra, son of Dinu, but now claimed by Nantu Rana. (4). Mauli, entered in names of Saudagar, Gobind, &c., who still take the manure. (5). Galela Uperla, entered in names of Paritam and Gagina. Manure now claimed by Panchi of Dar. (6). Galela Jhikla, entered in name of Shankru of Jul, who still takes the manure. (7). Jugala, not recorded in name of any one, but manure is now claimed by Kalia Bat of Mauli. This dhar was given by the people after settlement. (8). Chake-ka-nahr, also a new dhar, and no special arrangement exists as to manure. IN MANA. (1). Bágan, not recorded at settlement. Manure now claimed by Biptu, &c., of Uperli Dar (outside the trihai). (2). Makhlúd, entered in name of Garba, whose sons, Jauri, &c., now take the manure.	Contains no chil, only oak, and the other trees found on the main range. Mr. Lyall, in his order dated 21st June 1869, directed that the buffalo grazing in the rains should be common to the whole village, that every proprietor should have a right to make a tapri, but at some distance from a tapri already existing—see paragraph 39 (towards the end) and paragraph 185 of Settlement Report. Many claims have been made to exclusive rights of grazing, but these claims have always been dismissed. It has been customary for influential proprietors to bring into the dhars the buffaloes of other villages. The people asked that this should be prevented, and as no one has any right to lease the grazing, these outsiders should be excluded. There was a case at Revenue Settlement as regards buffalo grazing in Mana, and it was decided (Appeal No. 171, dated 19th December 1868) that grazing was common, but that the possession of goths was exclusive. Mr. Lyall recorded an order in this village as to the rights of zamindárs to manure from Gaddi shepherds, and as the order applies generally it is quoted in full; "Wherever a family has for many years continuously got manure from the Gaddis grazing in any particular dhar, that family should be considered entitled to the manure. But wherever the manure has been given only in consequence of an arrangement between the Gaddi and the land-owner, the

						„ Othra ...	Chakban Dhar ...	Full rights ...	In this forest there is no cultivation nor kharetar. An area, Ghs. 1-3-18, is occupied by huts. Buffalo grazing has been divided, but this is contrary to an order recorded at the Revenue Settlement by Mr. Lyall, that all grazing on the dhars was to be common and open to all. This order has now been maintained, and it has been declared that no one has exclusive right of grazing on the dhars except Gújárs in whose name the right was specially recorded at the Revenue Settlement. These Gújárs pay 5 annas for a small and 10 annas for a large buffalo. The following is a list of the principal dhars with the name of the tika that generally goes to them, but the right is not exclusive :— (1). Khanru, grazed by Tika Kulni-barag. (2). Kopru, grazed by Tika Kulni-barag. (3). Dahna, grazed by Tikas Khás Narwana & Othra. (4). Lamba Got, grazed by Tikas Jarther & Othra. (5). Farak, (6). Paniartu Bunla, (7). Chat-Khar, (8). Paniartu Uperla, grazed by Madari & other Gújárs of Tika Tang. (9). Kalsuri, grazed by Tika Machan. (10). Bharuni, grazed by Tika Kasba. (11). Tath, grazed by Tika Machan. (12). Palra, grazed by Jauri Mahlundi (Kandlu Gaddi), and manure is given to Tika Kasba. (2). Bari Ani, grazed by Nek Mahlundi (Budetu Gaddi), and manure is given to Tika Kasba. (3). Chotli Ani, grazed by Mutsaddi, &c. (Kaula Gaddís), and manure is given to Khás Narwana and to a few assámís of Kasba. (4). Tothu, grazed by Sikla (Biantu Gaddi), and manure is given to Jather and Salag Tikas. (5). Boda, grazed by Kamla (Panáhn Gaddi), and manure is given to Kulni-barag and Khás Narwana Tikas. (6). Kal-lur, grazed by Mutsaddi and Rath (Brahmin Hatál), and manure is given to Kasba Tika. (7). Resnali, grazed by Amru Brahmin, and manure is given to Othragraon or to Bagiara and Kund.	This forest and the next Chandar-Ban are on the main range, and contain the usual trees. Sunny southern slopes are generally bare. There is the Torl Pass into Chamba in this village, and the path to the Taling Pass also runs through it. They use both passes : Torl when there is much snow on Taling. It has been common for the Kotwáls and other influential men to allow the cattle of other villages to graze on the dhars in the rains ; but the right to graze belongs exclusively to revenue payers of the village, and outsiders should be strictly excluded. Those who are shown as entitled to the grazing runs are Mahlundis or Managers on behalf of the tikas entitled to manure. They may not have sheep of their own ; but no one may graze without their permission; and whoever grazes must manure fields on their way back from Chamba from the 20th or 25th Kártik up to 20th Maggar. They get food from those whose fields they manure.

Soup Dhar and Paud Ban.	Jiya ...	Chakban ...	Tika Juger ... „ Karti ... „ Kudan ... „ Dil ...	Soup Dhar on the right side of the Boner.	Grazing in the rains, grass, dry wood, nargal, kanál and patra, and wood for tapris.	This forest includes an area of Ghs. 684-1-17 of forest sold in 1863 to the Kángra Valley Tea Company, which is separately demarcated. Also an area of Ghs. 22-7-6 which is partly cultivated and partly occupied by shepherds' and gújárs' huts. For the people of the village grazing of buffaloes is promiscuous on the whole common waste; no one has any exclusive right. But the following arrangement is generally observed as most convenient:—Tikas Jiya, Majetli, Barota, Diála, Juger, Kharti, Kudan, Dil go to Taling Dhar in Soup Dhar; and Tikas Barsar, Arar, go to Gwár Dhar. Huts have been put up in many places, but they confer no exclusive right to the grazing. The Kapru Sawána on the Taling Dhar is recorded in the names of Gújárs of Gopálpur, Musal and of Ilám Diál (now dead) of Kwári. They pay annas 10 per buffalo. The sawána extends from Gun-ka-Nal to Phati-tol. A case was decided in which a right to graze in Taling was admitted to Surkhu, Gújár; but he grazes in Gwár and pays dues, even though a proprietor in the village and though he has not the exclusive right in Gwár where the zamíndárs also graze. Tothu, Labána of Gopálpur, may graze in the Tobri Sawána between Gun Nal and Ban-ka-pairi, which lies under the Gújárs' Sawána. Zamíndárs also graze in Tobri. Tothu will pay annas 10 per head. No other Labánas have any right.	Sheep grazing is promiscuous for all in the village. There is only one pass into Chamba known as Taling. The people of the village go both by it and by the Singhár Pass, more to the east.	A large forest on the main range, with the usual trees. Warm slopes are generally somewhat bare. It has been not uncommon for the lambardárs of this village to allow the cattle of other villages to graze on the dhars in the rains. The people generally are opposed to this, and it should be strictly prevented. For some years Nanda Katoch of Rajer has set nets for hawks on the dhar in Tika Arar; he paid Rs. 3. He has not come for two years.

Bhagpura ...	Chichiyan ...	Bhagpura ... Debinu. Rakh.	Gamrota Tika except those rights in Ban Dehara.	Debinu ...	Full rights. ...	In Debinu there is no kharetar nor sawána, but an area of Ghs. 1-7-7, partly cultivated and partly "abádi."	Sheep grazing in this village is promiscuous; any one may graze in any part; but those who have goths recorded at Revenue Settlement generally go to them and other shepherds avoid grazing near these goths.	This is on the main range and contains the usual trees When land was taken up in 1863 for tea plantations, an area of...acres, which had become the sole property of Government, was not sold and remains still in the hands of Government. There is a slate quarry in Rakh which is used by the people of Chichiyan only. There is a vein of iron ore in Debinu, but it is not worked.
			Maphar, Bhajan, Thali, Misar } of Tika Rakh.	Ditto ...	Full rights for their land in Debinu.	In Bhagpura there is no kharetar, nor sawána, but an area of Ghs. 5-5-7 partly cultivated and partly abádi.
			Mauza Chichiyan, except the part of Gamrota which has rights in Debinu.	Rakh and Bhagpura	Agricultural implements, nangal, grass, wood for tapris in the rains, dry wood for charcoal, slates.	In Rakh there is an area of Ghs. 11-6-7 cultivation and abádi. Buffalo grazing is common to the whole village on the common waste. No one has any exclusive right.

Full rights.		There is very little waste in this village, and buffaloes from other villages are not brought to it, nor are there any sawánas. The goths which pay revenue are generally cultivated, either barley or potatoes being grown, but the custom is not extending. There is no pass into Chamba, in Chichiyan, but the road to the Singhár Pass runs through it. Outside Gaddis do not remain in this village, which has large flocks of its own and can satisfy its own wants in the matter of manure.
				Rest of Tika Rakh ...		Ditto ...	Dry wood, grass, patra and kanál.
91	Kand-Bari and Rajer.	Kand-Bari ...	Chakban ...	Tika Gorat ...		Chakban ...	Full rights ...	There is no kharetar in this forest, but an area of Ghs. 10-5-16 (nantor) which may be cultivated as heretofore. A claim was put in by Jaishi Rám of Sagúr in the State of Lambagraon for the right to graze buffaloes in Malchitar, Malaun in Kand Bari; and in Kuri Droti of Lanod. The right was not admitted at the Revenue Settlement, but he holds an order of Mr. Barnes, dated July	There is no division of grazing; any one may go to any run.	A forest on the main range, of much value, containing a few chil towards Rajer, but mostly stocked with oak. The Wárú Pass is in this village. The Surei Pass which is in Laned is lower and easier, and is generally used when there is deep snow on the range.

				Ludar, Mahta, Lachman } of Tika Rachara.	Gaunt ...	Grazing.	1855, giving him the right to graze in Malaun. The zamíndárs may also graze in Malaun. No exclusive right is admitted. The village of Kand Bari was once part of the Lambagraon Jágír and hence this claim by the Katochís may be correct.		The Rája of Lambagraon has been accustomed to set nets for the capture of falcons in September and October. This village once formed part of his jágír. He cuts Kamth and brah, kusmal and ban, but only short pieces (6 feet) to support the nets.

				All the other Tikas of Kand-Bari except those already mentioned.	Chakban ...	Ditto ditto.

				Mauza Rajer ...	Rajer ...	Full rights, but see order allowing special privileges subject to certain conditions.	.....	.....	The circumstances of Rajer will be found in the civil suits instituted by the owners against Government, in which after appeal to the Chief Court the full rights of Government in the trees were maintained. A special order has been recorded.
				Those persons of Tikas Nenar, Rameher, Kamled, who burn their dead in Pun Khad.	Ditto ...	Wood for burning the dead after notice to lambardár of Rajer.
92	Sansal ...	Sansal ...	Barahn ...	Tika Barahn ...	Barahn ...	Full rights.	In Barahn Tika there is no kharetar, but an area of Ghs. 1-3-1 of cultivation, mostly goths. There is also a sawána belonging to Ránu of Uperla Panjála, who pays 10 annas for a buffalo that has given a calf. His grazing is exclusive only in Hár, Sáwan, Bhádron. The limits of this sawána do not seem to be strictly defined. In Kutar-thathi there is no cultivation, kharetar, nor sawáns. In Thathwál-thathi there is no sawána, but an area of Ghs. 3-2-10 cultivated and Ghs. 15-5-13 assessed kharetar. In Chaughan-thathi there is no sawána nor kharetar, but an area of Ghs. 2-4-4 partly cultivated, partly abádi. In Morer Kalán there is no sawána nor kharetar, but an area of Ghs. 0-7-7 cultivation. In Morer Khurd there is no cultivation, nor kharetar, nor sawáns. In the Chakban there is an area of Kanáls 6-17 cultivated. In Matrun there is no field, nor kharetar, nor sawána. The grazing of buffaloes on the dhars is common and open to all the people of the village ; no one has any exclusive right.	There has been no division of the sheep grazing. The Sansal sheep graze anywhere either in Sansal and Dewal, and so also the Dewal sheep. The road to the Thamsár is through the village.	A forest running up to the main range which is here broken into several ridges, with large valleys. There are several dhars on which nets are set for hawks :— (1). In Barahn by Fatu of Rajer, who pays Rs. 7. (2). Thatwál-thathi, at Lindi Riri, by Lálgir, who pays Rs. 4-8. (3). Morer Kalán by Kharku of Khairan, who pays Rs. 5-4. (4). Chakban at Kalchiti on border of Kolhi Kohr. The income whatever it may be is divided equally between Kolhi Kohr and Sansal.
